Pear Bread & Buttermilk Biscuits

Give the family a different, moist quick bread and try these buttermilk biscuits!

Good morning,

The days are getting cooler and the nights crisp, it's my favorite time of the year. I love Fall -- all the pumpkins and fall decorations, seeing the harvest being done, enjoying football and volleyball season. Not having to mow the lawn anymore!

This week I have a bread recipe you just have to try. It's something different, it's really moist and you can leave the pecans out if it's what you wish. It makes two loaves. Maybe share one with a friend. Give it a try! Here's also an easy cut-out biscuit recipe you could make to go with a nice bowl of your favorite soup. I love serving a bread with my soups I serve. "Bet you would love em". Delicious. JoAnn

Upper Elkhorn NRD To Hold Modified Groundwater Irrigated Acre Expansion Sign-Up In October

The Upper Elkhorn NRD will be taking applications for the expansion of new groundwater irrigated acres during the month of October for the 2024 growing season. There will be up to 150 new acres allotted to increase irrigation efficiency. The focus of the 2023 sign up will be to finish off pivots with 15 acres or less that have to reverse due to an obstacle not allowing the pivot to complete the circle. The sign up is not on a first come first served basis; but, based on a ranking criteria sheet that focuses on current water quality and quantity concerns within the district. Applications will be accepted from the landowner or their power of attorney from October 1 through October 31, 2023. The criteria ranking has been updated to meet the Board's focus for this year's expansion which also affirms that meeting the minimum score does not guarantee that the acres will be approved. Due to drought conditions, water quality and quantity issues the Upper Elkhorn NRD reserves the right to deny any expansion if it might be in conflict with the Upper Elkhorn NRD Groundwater Management Plan Rules and Regulations.

There will be a $50 application fee for anyone wishing to sign up to expand new acres; and, if the application is approved there will be an acre fee of $5 per acre or a minimum of $125 to proceed with the application. The application and supporting information is available on the UENRD website (www.uenrd.org) for review. Appointments for the Expansion of Groundwater Irrigated Acres are required and you will need a map showing where you would like to expand the acres and how many acres you would like to expand.

Finding affirmation in my son’s essay assignment

A lot of parents spend a lot of energy on affirming their children. Most parents want their children to know that they love them, they’re accepted, they are doing something right, etc. However, if you’re like me, you want to get some indication that you’re doing things right as a parent. It’s not often that we, as parents, get any sort of validation. I often think I’m doing things wrong. I constantly overthink things and worry if my efforts as a parent are going to yield any sort of results. How do we know we’re doing a good job and not raising future serial killers? I recently had one of those rare validating moments and it took me by surprise. Apparently, my 8th grader was tasked with writing an essay on something that has most inspired his life. It could be a thing, a person, an activity. Anything at all. I didn’t know he was even writing it. He’s been self-sufficient with his homework so as long as he continues to do well, I don’t keep up with all his assignments. The other night as I was tucking him in, he told me about the essay, and he told me that he chose me. His essay is about how I’ve taught him the value of hard work and practicing at anything in which he wants to get better. He discusses the chores I make him do such as making his bed, cleaning his vanity, helping to vacuum, and so on. He then talks about how

I make him practice cello daily and he used to fight me, but it allowed him to make Chamber Orchestra and he now sees the benefit of it. I was shocked. I couldn’t believe the words coming from my teenager. We have a good relationship but lately we argue a lot. He knows everything and I know nothing. You know, the typical parent/teenager disagreements. I want to pull my hair out when I must remind him to do things every single day - literally. The same rules, every day! You’d think after all this time, it would sink in. These are the days where I think I must be doing something wrong. Clearly, I’m not being effective if he can’t remember to turn off lights and put away milk after he uses it. This conversation gave me a little glimmer of hope that maybe I am not the worst mom in the world. If you’ve ever felt like maybe you’re not the best parent or if you’ve ever wondered if what you’re doing is making a difference, I hope this encourages you. Children do not tend to be vocal when it comes to things like this. It’s not often they give us any positive reinforcement and some never do. We just have to trust that all the little things, the ones that we think go unnoticed, are actually making a difference. They say the days are long, but the years are short. It won’t be long before they leave our homes and are off on their own. Don’t give up hope, don’t get discouraged, just keep fighting the good fight. In the end, it will all be worth it. Comments are welcome and can be sent to talesofatiredmomma@gmail.com.

The parade began at 8:15 a.m. a bit chilly, but not bad with gloves and plenty of blankets. The parade consisted of 90 large, medium and small bands, along with floats, fancy motorcycles, the Shriners, ‘Big Foot,’ and much more. The band students enjoyed watching the bands and scooping up candy thrown by those participating in the parade. After the parade the Wheeler Central van, by majority vote, headed to Subway for a noon lunch.

The Homestead Service Coordinator’s office will again be offering Medicare Prescription Drug Plan counseling and enrollment. Assistance is available thanks to funding from the Elgin Bargain Box and individual donations. Patrons are asked to donate to the program if they are financially able.

Open Enrollment runs from October 15th through December 7, and seniors are strongly encouraged to check their drug plans during this time. The plans premiums, deductibles and copays can change each year, and cost differences may be significant. Seniors should have recently received their Annual Notice of Change (ANOC) from their drug plans, and it is very important that they read and understand the changes being made to their plans. The notice contains the 2023 premium, deductible and copays for the plan they are currently in. Appointments can be made by calling Connie Dvorak at (402)843-8769.

Chamber of Commerce president, Jerry Sheets, and “Dick” Draper were in Lincoln Wednesday to build a display in the State C. of C. window. Each member of the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce is entitled to display and advertise their town or city’s facilities which will attract industry to Nebraska. Jerry plans to photograph the window display.

State Highway Engineer, John W. Hossack, in speaking to around 250 persons at the annual Highway 70 Association banquet in Elgin Tuesday night, stated that the first dustless surfacing on present Highway 70 was completed in 1932. This was a ten mile stretch from the junction of Highway 20 south to about four miles north of Neligh. A comparison of costs for the initial project was $55,180 while ten miles completed last year west of Elgin to the Wheeler County line cost $353,122, stated Mr. Hossack. From these figures it is quite evident that highways were cheaper to build in the “good old days” than they are today.

The word “BINGO” has been a naughty word as far as newspapers are concerned, according to law, for a number of years. Bingo privileges in Nebraska did not change this matter and we are not permitted to accept advertising which uses this word, promotes the game or names winners. The quirk in this law appears to be the fact that bingo can be played on TV and is being promoted by some business firms through their advertising in daily newspapers. The public is invited to obtain complete details from the respective businesses. Is this a technicality that sharp lawyers have detected in our newly enacted legislative law?

Alissa Evans, daughter of Joe and Nancy Evans of Oakdale, and Patrick Stuhr, son of Ken and Joan Stuhr of Raeville, were crowned the 1993 Pope John Central Catholic Homecoming Royalty during ceremonies last Saturday event, Oct. 13, at St. Boniface Auditorium. Returning to crown their successors were the 1992 king and queen, Mike Stuhr and Tammy Klabenes.

A 35-yard field goal in the final minute of play provided a one-point victory margin for Leigh and handed Elgin’s football team its first defeat of the 1993 season last Friday night on the EHS field. The Eagles had come back from a 19-13 deficit to score the go-ahead touchdown in the fourth quarter, but Leigh put together a drive in the final minutes and scored on Cattau’s field goal with 49 seconds left for the win.

A pair of missed PAT attempts in the second half spelled the difference for the Pope John Crusaders in their 22-20 Homecoming loss to Niobrara/Santee on the Elgin field last Thursday night. The Crusaders had an 8-0 lead in the first quarter and a 14-8 lead in the third quarter, but could not contain the Lions’ slippery running back, Jason Jones, who scored all but two of the N/S points and carried the ball on 33 of 41 rushing attempts.

She purchased her $5 ticket at Pronto Travel Plaza in Elgin Saturday morning. It’s certainly not enough to retire on. Kate said she plans to keep her job as a waitress.

Students at St. Boniface School last week contributed a total of $201.71 toward new children’s books at the Elgin Public Library, in response to a challenge from Elgin Public school. Money from both schools will be used in conjunction with a Libri Foundation grant. The St. Boniface third grade raised the most money, $67, and had the honor of presenting the donation check.

Farmers and ranchers are heading into the fall season with the cattle market at one of its highest points in recent history. During the past week, fed cattle prices have ranged from $91 to $92 per hundredweight in the south and $95 in the north. The extra boost in the U.S. cattle market has connections to the closing of the border with Canada due to an outbreak of Mad Cow disease last spring. This has reduced beef imports at the same time exports were increasing. While prices are high and the outlook is optimistic, future profits in the cattle business could be hard to come by. The cost of replacement cattle is high, and profits for cattle feeders could depend on sustaining high prices.

I decided it was time to get out of the office and go see Nebraska. It’s been a post-pandemic while since I have done so. I jumped at the chance to ride to Chadron with a friend with numerous stops along the way.

Call it a visual check-up to see how the Cornhusker State is holding up amid almost daily reports of increasing drought and the uncertainty of crop yields. Things are very green in spots, very brown in others. But hope springs eternal and the harvest continues.

As Summer refuses to become Fall in most places, the Nebraska Department of Transportation forges ahead with completely replacing long random sections of Interstate 80, taking it down to grade and starting over.

The resultant crossover lanes, generally in double-digit miles, provide a break from the monotony of straight flat roadway.

It can also be terrifying watching the big lumbering semis come at you with only flexible rubber tall cones to separate eastbound from westbound traffic.

But, from a quickie-mart in Kimball to a Chinese restaurant in Chadron, it’s the people that make the difference. Friendly, helpful, for the most part relaxed, people care.

They may recognize strangers and wonder what brings them to their community, albeit briefly, but they rarely treat one differently.

There was a homemade sign in a fencerow west of Chadron that simply proclaimed “Trump Lost.” Several other signs along the way promised an “end to property taxes” by supporting the “Epic Tax.” That’s Sen. Steve Erdman’s proposal formerly known over the decades as the transaction tax or the consumption tax. Just say “no.”

I listened to a history professor from Southern Methodist University in Texas tell an audience at Chadron State College that he thinks a controversial book from the 1930s titled “Great Plains,” was still relevant and could as easily be redeemed as it has been dissed. I must admit that the title, “What’s So Great About the Great Plains,” caught my interest.

With a goal of reaching Sidney on our return trip, I took great glee as I saw a sugar beet dump operating near Hemingford. I am still puzzled about the train laden with full coal cars traveling north into Alliance. I thought the coal came from mines in the west and traveled to ports and plants to the east.

After breakfast at the motel in Sidney, I encountered a friendly couple that was just entering the breakfast area. The man stopped and asked me, “on a scale of 1-10, how was the breakfast, a minus 3?”

I was pleased to report it was a 7 or 8. The patty sausage and gravy were both quite good. The folded egg and cheese omelet resembling a taco was a bit chewy, but edible. We shared a laugh and he thanked me.

Yes, all is still right with the world. Pardon my excitement over this next revelation. I guess it has been around since last December, but the I-80 eastbound rest area near Brule is a site to behold. A wall of glass windows under a radically peaked roof is breath taking.

Our friends at NDOT tell us it features 61 truck-parking stalls, 54 passenger stalls and 6 RV stalls. They describe it as having a unique design that serves as a gateway into Nebraska from Colorado by pointing west.

We made it back to Lincoln in time to miss a massive prairie fire near Milford that closed the highway for a time and avoided heavy traffic that had culminated at Memorial Stadium on the University of Nebraska campus.

For the most part, Nebraska looks good as the days dwindle down and we turn our thoughts to possibly hunkering down for a cold and dry winter. If you get a chance, try to enjoy it before then!.

Next steps for the House of Representatives

By Mike Hilgers

Nebraska Attorney General

This week, the House was set to continue its work on the twelve annual appropriations bills to ensure the government is responsibly funded. Unfortunately, our legislative work to cut wasteful spending was disrupted when a small handful of Republicans voted with Democrats to remove the Speaker of the House. I voted against vacating the chair because it sets a disruptive precedent and because the House should be focused on delivering results for the American people. House Republicans already have a record of success in the 118th Congress, and I believe we should be building on that record as a team united, not fighting amongst ourselves. It’s unfortunate we are in this position, but we must come together, elect a new speaker, and get back to doing the People’s business. I thank former Speaker Kevin McCarthy for his service and will continue speaking with my colleagues and Nebraskans as I consider which of my House Republican colleagues would most effectively lead the House as Speaker.

FROM THE HILL

Over the last 275 days, our Republican Majority has delivered meaningful wins for all Americans. We started with reopening the House to the American people, ending proxy voting, and forcing the Biden administration to end the COVID-19 Public Health Emergency. House Republicans have worked hard to return to normalcy and get our country back on track since retaking the majority. With millions of families and small businesses depending on us, we cannot let off the gas.

mation—your maiden name or hometown—can help hackers crack your security questions.

- Only accept friend requests from people you know. Fake social media profiles are rampant online. Scammers look to get your personal information by connecting with you. If you encounter a fake profile, report the account to the social media platform.
- Create strong, unique passwords. Passwords are your first line of defense against hackers. Make them as secure as possible. Longer is stronger. Passwords should have a minimum of 12 characters. Consider using mixed case letters and adding a number or symbol or two.

- Use two-factor authentication (2FA). Two-factor authentication is a security measure that, in addition to your password, requires one of the following: a security code, an answer to a security question, or, if using a smartphone, voice print, fingerprint, or facial recognition. Most major social media accounts now include this feature. Use it!
- Tighten your profile’s privacy settings. Most of us leave the default privacy settings on our accounts. But in just 15 minutes, you can quickly review and significantly increase the effective security for social media accounts. These settings also allow you to deliberately choose what different user groups, e.g., friends, friends-of-friends, or everyone, can see. This allows you to decide what you do and don’t want to share.

- Keep a clean machine. Scammers often succeed in stealing your personal information by exploiting bugs in your computer, phone, or tablet. Protect yourself from cyberattacks by consistently updating to the most recent software available. This is simple if you choose the “automatic updates” setting, available on most devices. For additional protection, use and regularly update antivirus and anti-malware through a trusted provider.

With social media, security is in your hands. Being informed and taking action can help protect both your privacy and security.

Finding a responsible way to fund government

This weekend, Congress narrowly avoided a government shutdown. After a turbulent week, the House of Representatives passed a short-term bipartisan spending bill. The Senate approved the bill hours before the deadline of October 1.

From 2005 to 2013, I served as a member of the Nebraska Legislature. During that time, we ran into a major budget shortfall. All of us in the Unicameral worked together and compromised to find solutions to that fiscal crisis. We were legislators, so we legislated. In the end, we made tough decisions and funded government in Nebraska.

As your U.S. Senator, I’m committed to working hard to ensure that we get our job done here in Washington, D.C., and fund the U.S. government. That’s why I voted in favor of this weekend’s bill that gives Congress more time to work through the regular appropriations process without a government shutdown.

The negotiations we’re having in Washington are important. But political fights shouldn’t hurt the average American by shutting down access to vital government services, or forcing our military and border patrol agents to work without pay. In Congress, we need to make tough decisions to ensure that our government stays funded for the long term.

Instead of going on TV or Twitter to fight, my priority is working with my colleagues to find real solutions. We need to do more than just keep the government open — we also need to address our overwhelming $33 trillion national debt. Our debt keeps climbing, putting our children’s futures in jeopardy. More than that, it’s putting our national security in jeopardy.

As a senior member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, I take our national defense extremely seriously. The United States is facing two peer nuclear adversaries, China and Russia, for the first time in history — so now is not the time to shut down operations. By shutting down our government, we are projecting weakness to our adversaries. The national debt is already threatening our national and economic security, but a government shutdown would exacerbate those issues.

That’s one reason I cosponsored the Pay Our Military Act last week. This bill, led by Senator Dan Sullivan (R-Alaska), ensures that members of our military branches — Army, Air Force, Marine Corps, Navy, Coast Guard, and Space Force — will be paid in the event of a government shutdown during Fiscal Year 2024. Our dedicated military men and women shouldn’t miss a paycheck because of political fights in Washington. Congress needs to take action to protect this nation’s military readiness and make sure members of our Armed Forces receive the pay they have rightfully earned.

Congress will have to make some tough decisions as we near the new deadline of November 17. It’s vital that we address the crisis at our southern border and limit our spending to what needs to be addressed. But if we are ever going to seriously address our nation’s financial crisis, Members of Congress must work together on responsible policies.

Governing by crisis management may be popular here in Washington, but it hurts the people of this country — and it’s not the Nebraska way. Instead, I want our work in Con-

Wolfpack Sports

Wolfpack fall to Cards, top St. Francis

ELGIN — The Wolfpack volleyball team gave undefeated O’Neill St. Mary’s their best shot Tuesday night, but it wasn’t enough as the Cardinals won in straight sets 25-21 and 25-16.

Playing a triangular at St. Boniface Auditorium, the night could have been labeled a ‘rivals’ triangular as EPPJ first battled St. Mary’s then faced Humphrey St. Francis in the night cap.

Against the Cardinals, EPPJ just couldn’t find any momentum. Time and time again, EPPJ would appear ready to take control of the opening set only to see the Cards’ duo of Lorissa Reiman and Mya Hedstrom make the necessary plays to stay ahead.

As a team, EPPJ had just 11 kills against St. Mary’s led by Ashlynn Charf with five and Chloe Henn with four. Reiman had 12 kills for St. Mary’s.

EPPJ had just nine set assists, all by senior Baylee Busted.

EPPJ struggled in serve receive with 20 errors.

One thing for certain - it’s likely the Wolfpack could face the Cardinals two more times, at the NVC Tournament and subdistricts.

Second match

In the final match of the night, EPPJ defeated the Flyers 25-8 and 25-17.

The Wolfpack attack was ‘on’ against the Flyers as they had 24 kills in 57 swings. Henn had 11 kills in 14 swings to key the attack.

Busteed was credited with 20 set assists in the match.

Serve receive was much improved in this match as EPPJ had just four errors over two sets. Kate Furstenau led the team in serve receive with eight.

Punishing ground game chews up Cougars 60 to 8

EPPJ generates 350 yards of total offense, 333 on ground

VERDIGRE — Fall arrived here Friday and so did the Wolfpack. That proved to be bad for Niobrara-Verdigre’s football team as EPPJ prevailed 60 to 8 on the gridiron.

Amassing 333 yards rushing, the Wolfpack built a 60-point lead before the Cougars scored.

Karson Kallhoff (4) guided the Wolfpack to eight touchdowns.

The Wolfpack’s offensive line opened holes coach Greg Wemhoff could have driven a pickup through.

After a blocked punt gave the Wolfpack the ball on the Cougars’ six yard line, fullback Taylor Beckman bullied his way into the endzone for the game’s first touchdown.

In claiming their fifth victory of the season, EPPJ scored eight rushing touchdowns. On the other side of the ball, the Cougars were going nowhere for most of the game. The defense, led by senior linebacker Dylan Lueking, held the Cougars to just one first down in the first half. Most of their 105 yards of offense came late in the game against Wolfpack reserves.

A number of reserves had big games in limited action. Sophomore Kaiden Bode twice picked off Cougar passes to end drives. Freshman Brayden Burenheide recorded his first ever quarterback sack.

Blake Henn set up the Wolfpack’s second touchdown. After the defense forced a three-and-out, Henn ripped off a 34-yard run down to the Cougars’ 12-yard line. Six plays later, Henn took a pitch into the endzone from two yards out.

Working with a short field for most of the first half, the Wolfpack’s third touchdown of the quarter came on a one-yard run by Gage Thiessen. Prior to the score Thiessen had a 19-yard run.

Add a Cougar safety and the Wolfpack were up 24 to 0 at the end of the quarter.

The Wolfpack offense kept running the ball, daring the Cougars to try and stop it. They could not as the second quarter showed. Three times the Wolfpack would run the ball into the endzone. Backup tailback Grady Druke scored on a 16-yard run. Thiessen later tallied a 16-yard touchdown of his own. Then, just before halftime, Beckman powered his way into the endzone from 21 yards out.

Sophomore defensive back Kaiden Bode ended the Cougars’ best drive of the first half with an interception just one play after a quarterback sack by Lueking.

Up 46 to 0 with a running clock to start the second half, Coach Wemhoff gave the Cougars and future opponents something to think about as quarterback Karson Kallhoff had big gains with quarterback keepers around the right end. Twice in their opening drive, Kallhoff had big runs. The second run set up a score when Thiessen went in from 11 yards out.

Then, after another Bode interception, the Wolfpack were in the endzone again when freshman Gavin Kallhoff scored on a five-yard run.

The Cougars’ lone score came in the waning moments of the fourth quarter when reserve quarterback Kash Nielsen connected with Julius Brandt from five yards out.

The Wolfpack (5-2) trio of Thiessen, Beckman and Druke combined for 237 yards rushing. The Wolfpack averaged over seven yards per carry, in large part, due to the blocking of center Jarek Erickson and guards Nick Anderson and Sam Hemenway.

On defense, Lueking had a

Bode’s 13 ace serves lift EPPJ past N-V

VERDIGRE — Playing their third match in less than 24 hours, Elgin Public-Pope John made quick work of Niobrara-Verdigre.

The Cougars had no answers against the Wolfpack as EPPJ claimed their 20th victory of the season.

No statistic was more telling than serving. Behind junior Sara Bode’s 13 ace serves, the Wolfpack finished with 15 in the match.

Bode’s pin-pointing serving included 20 points in a row in the second . By the time she was done, EPPJ had turned an early deficit into a 21 to 2 advantage.

Serve receive continued to be a problem for the Cougars in the third set as EPPJ built up a 16 to 3 lead as junior Chloe Henn had three kills.

Coach Jordyn Luettel elected to clear the bench for much of the final set as Braelyn Martinsen, Brenna Martinsen, Jazmine McNally and Keyera Eisenhower all made plays to boost the lead.

The Wolfpack (20-4) had 26 kills in 68 swings in the match. Ashlynn Charf led with nine followed by Henn with eight, Bode and Braelyn Martinsen each had three, Kayton Zwingman added two and Camry Kittelson had one. Baylee Busteed led in set assists with 17, Callie Heithoff had four and Kaitey Schumacher recorded two.

Spinning Tales

A great, but bittersweet weekend for Wolfpack sports

VERDIGRE — Has there been a better two-day stretch for sports fans around Elgin than what transpired this past week? It began Thursday night with the Wolfpack sweeping a triangular at Wausa, then Friday afternoon the football team ran all over Niobrara-Verdigre. And, to wrap things up, Friday night the Blackshirts helped preserve a Husker victory. And yet, it's bittersweet First, let's talk about volleyball. After Tuesday night's split of a triangular against St. Mary's (loss) and Humphrey St. Francis (win), I think the team had something to prove when the went to Wausa. Watching the matches via Hudl, it seemed that everything the team did was the right thing to do. They carried on this 'devastation' into Friday's match against the Lady Cougars of Niobrara-Verdigre. Kinda like this verse same as the last. EPPJ put a world of hurt on the outmanned Lady Cougars. Junior Sara Bode found the zone from the service line and had, what has to be a Wolfpack record, 13 ace serves in one match. Not once in any of these three afore-mentioned matches did EPPJ's opponents think for one second they would win. That's domination at its finest, that's devastation in its most basic form. Take away a team's confidence and the outcome is already decided. Then there's the Wolfpack football team. Friday ushered in a cool, stiff breeze and temperatures to remind everyone that it's going to get colder before it gets hotter again. The Wolfpack provided their own 'heat' in this matchup against a Cougars' team which came into the game with a 3-3 record. The game was 'over' shortly after it began, the Wolfpack were going to win, the only question was by how much. The big boys up front made it easy for the ballcarriers in the backfield to work their way upfield. On defense, Wolfpack senior Sam Hemenway owned the line of scrimmage, tossing the guy blocking him to the side like he was just another square hay bale. I can't tell which side of the ball the Wolfpack like to play more - touchdowns are fun, so too is making tackles. These teams are fun to watch, check them out in the coming weeks. Then, to cap off the Wolfpack victories, the Huskers decided to win one on the road. If you follow the Huskers (who doesn't), then you know Big Ten road games have not ministration's anti-growth agenda, we passed H.R. 1, the Lower Energy Costs Act which, if enacted, would unleash domestic energy production and restore American energy dominance. House Republicans also passed H.R. 2, the Secure the Border Act. This bill confronts the ongoing gaps in our nation's border enforcement, boosts manpower at the border, invests in enforcement technology, and mandates resumption of border wall construction. The path we are currently on is unsustainable as fentanyl, national security threats, and unprecedented numbers of illegal immigrants exploit border vulnerabilities, exacerbating a humanitarian crisis. In the Fiscal Responsibility Act, we fought for and delivered the largest deficit reduction in our nation's history, clawed back unspent COVID funds, and passed a version of my bill to repeal IRS funding for its army of agents set to conduct middle-class audits. By passing H.R. 5, the Parent's Bill of Rights Act, House Republicans took a strong stand for parents everywhere by recognizing the primary role parents play in their children's education and reaffirming their rights to be informed of what students experience at school. A bill I have introduced, the Educational Choice for Children Act would further empower families to make their own educational decisions by increasing access to high-quality education regardless of ZIP code or socioeconomic status. We still have plenty of work to do to put our country on a path towards prosperity. Securing the border, passing the remaining eight appropriations bills through regular order, bringing much-needed accountability to the Biden administration, and tackling major economic challenges like inflation will require House Republicans to work together as a team. The new Speaker of the House must have a plan to build on our successes, and continue our work to reduce deficits, expand economic opportunity, and protect the freedoms of American families. I look forward to hearing from my colleagues who are seeking the role in the coming days.

to counsel and pleaded guilty to driving during revocation, a Class 2 misdemeanor. Taylor fined him $250, assessed $50 costs and revoked his driver's license for an additional year. He was cited June 6 by a Nebraska State Patrol trooper on Highway 275, near mile marker 48. Kami M. Ash, 28, of Wood River pleaded guilty, by waiver, to an amended charge, driving during suspension, a Class 3 misdemeanor. Ash, who had pleaded not guilty to a Class 2 misdemeanor charge, driving during revocation, Sept. 6, was fined $100 and taxed $49 costs. Ash was cited July 21 by a Nebraska State Patrol officer. Jennifer Roberts, 46, of Occidental, California, pleaded guilty, by waiver, to a count of possessing an open alcohol container. She was fined $50 and $49 costs for the July 3 offense. Matthew J. Wright, 48, of Oakdale appeared for a show-cause hearing to request waiver of a 30-day jail sentence. Taylor reviewed a letter from his probation officer and other documents, then ordered the jail time be waived. She reminded Wright that he is still on probation, until mid-November, and is subject to all terms. Linda Mack of Elgin appeared for trial on five counts of violating Neligh's dangerous building ordinance last week in the Antelope County courtroom. Mack had waived her right to counsel and pleaded not guilty, when she was arraigned Aug. 2, to a single count of maintaining a dangerous building in the city, alleged "on or about the 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9th day of June." In the meantime, on Aug. 16, Neligh City Attorney James McNally filed an amended complaint, separating the charge to five individual counts. After hearing testimony and reviewing evidence Oct. 4, the Honorable Donna Taylor found Mack guilty of Count I and dismissed the remaining four counts. Sentencing is set Dec. 6. Richard C. Jelich Jr., 28, of Neligh appeared, alongside Antelope County public defender Pat Carney, for pretrial hearing on a count of third-degree assault, a Class1 misdemeanor alleged June 14 at a Neligh residence. Jelich changed his plea to guilty, per terms of a plea agreement and Antelope County Attorney Joe Smith agreed not to oppose probation. Carney told the judge his client, anticipating probation, requested sentencing to be held that day due to beginning a new job. However, Taylor denied the request, ordered a presentence investigation and set sentencing Nov. 15. "If he wants to be placed on probation, it is important that we get some information," she said. Jelich asked if he could complete the PSI with probation officials in Columbus, where he now works, and requested his bond (10% of $10,000) be returned, citing his need to purchase a vehicle. Taylor denied both requests. She said the bond owed him will be returned after sentencing and indicated the PSI needs to be done through the Norfolk probation office but that location of his supervision if probation is ordered would be determined by probation officers. Ronald E. Murray, 60 of Norfolk failed to appear for pretrial hearing on three counts, no proof of financial responsibility, operating an unregistered vehicle and no operator's license. Taylor issued a bench warrant for his arrest, setting bond at $5,000, 10%. On Sept. 18, Taylor issued a warrant for the arrest of Newell Douglas, 52, of Petersburg, who failed to appear for arraignment Sept. 6. He is charged with three Class 4 felony bad check counts, totaling $531.37, alleged May 30, June 3 and June 11, all to Elgin One Stop.

continue to be the BEST form of public notice for the citizens of this great state.

A reputable paper ensures that legal notices are printed for public view. Nebraska newspapers have taken an extra step and created a public notice online portal. It is designed for viewers to search for public notices throughout Nebraska in specific papers and/or by a keyword.

It isn't a substitute for the legal publishing of public notices but it is a bonus for both the entity publishing the notices and you, our readers.

All Elgin Review public notices can also be found on this portal.

NEBRASKA PUBLIC NOTICES

All states require that taxpayers and citizens be legally notified through public notices in newspapers of the activities of their government entities and courts. In Nebraska, that includes information pertaining to notice of meetings, proceedings or minutes of meetings, elections, annexations, budgets, property taxes and hearings, delinquent payments, hearings, ordinances, foreclosures and many other vital official matters of government entities; for courts, examples of required public notices include filings of estates, law suits, dissolutions, custody, assumed names, foreclosures, and many others.

Post-freeze forage hazards

With any forage crop, the risks associated with utilizing them as supplemental forage, especially as our environmental conditions begin to change are important to understand and manage for. This becomes critical as we move into fall.

With freezing temperatures making their way across the plains and Midwest, knowing how they can impact our forage crops is crucial for safe use. Freezing temperatures cause metabolic and cellular changes to plants we need to be aware of, with prussic acid formation and nitrate poisoning being the biggest concerns.

First, let's look at prussic acid. Sorghum, sudangrass, sorghum-sudangrass hybrids, and milo following a frost have broken cell membranes that allow the formation of a cyanide compound called prussic acid. This is naturally occurring in sorghum species. When ingested and broken down by the digestive system, the cyanide is released can quickly cause lethal results when consumed in high amounts. Monogastric species like pigs and horses can get prussic acid poisoning in extreme cases, but ruminants are more susceptible.

Levels of prussic acid vary depending on plant species. Lowest risk is sudangrass, with sorghum sudan hybrids of medium risk. High risk are forage sorghums with grain sorghum or milo carrying the highest levels and risk.

Keeping livestock out of fields with these species for five to seven days after a frost can limit the risk associated with prussic acid. Each time a new part of the plant is frozen, this five-seven day timer is reset until the entire plant has been killed. This can make grazing difficult in the fall when freezing events occur regularly but are not enough to fully kill the plant.

New shoots and especially regrowth on previously frost-damaged plants have the highest concentrations of prussic acid. If you notice new shoots after a frost, animals should not be allowed to graze until the regrowth is 15-18 inches tall or a frost completely kills the plant. This can be especially tricky when warm temperatures follow a frost.

Unless extremely high levels of prussic acid are present initially, haying or cutting a crop with prussic acid is not a concern. During the drying process, the prussic acid will volatilize and a majority of the initial concentration will be lost. Similarly, the fermentation process for ensiled sorghums will reduce prussic acid levels. If you are concerned about high levels of prussic acid in a silage or hay feed, samples can be sent to a lab for analysis.

Another issue to keep an eye on is nitrate poisoning. Grasses are especially susceptible to nitrate poisoning risks. Slower metabolism following a stress like freezing allows nitrates to accumulate within the plant, specifically oats, sudangrass, and millets. Because nitrates do not dissipate like prussic acid, haying or green chopping is not recommended following a freeze and can be potentially dangerous.

Nitrates commonly concentrate in the lower portions of plant stems. Waiting five days before haying or chopping and keeping a cutting height of 6 to 8 inches will help mitigate risk. Like prussic acid, the ensiling process will lower nitrate levels of plants harvested for silage. If grazing, reducing the stocking rate and increasing the animals' ability to selectively graze can lower nitrate risks. Pull animals off once the upper 2/3 of the plant has been consumed to avoid forcing animals to eat the lower portions of plants where nitrate risk is highest. This is not a good strategy for mixtures with sorghum species due to the prussic acid concerns discussed above.

Feeds that may contain high levels of nitrate aren't necessarily unusable as long as proper action is taken to minimize risk. Send samples to a lab for analysis on those forages that are suspected to contain high nitrate levels. With these results, rations can be developed that limit the amount of high nitrate forage being fed, minimizing risk.

10% of the state's child care programs since COVID-19 hit, according to a recent research brief from the University of Nebraska's Buffett Early Childhood Institute.

The situation could have been worse, the research shows.

Federal COVID-19 relief packages pumped an estimated $312.1 million into Nebraska. Those dollars "helped providers meet payroll, offer additional slots to children and families, and keep their doors open," according to the Buffett Institute.

But most of those funding packages expired Saturday, after Congress didn't extend them. Child care advocates and others had warned of the so-called "child care cliff" leading up to the Sept. 30 expiration date in hopes of spurring action. They said the loss of federal funds could trigger a wave of closures across the country.

Fewer child care options could carry economic consequences.

In August, nearly 68,000 job openings were posted online in Nebraska. At the same time, the state has consistently had one of the lowest unemployment rates in the country, signaling a mismatch between available jobs and workers to fill them.

According to a statewide survey commissioned earlier this year by Nebraska Extension and We Care for Kids, nearly a third of parents with children 5 and younger said they had left the workforce because they couldn't find affordable child care.

"When you put all that together you can see where the crisis is," said Walter Gilliam, Buffett Institute executive director, at an annual conference held in Kearney last month.

COVID-19 exposed cracks in an already unsustainable child care system, said Kellee Mikuls, founder and CEO of Swishboom, a mobile app that connects families in Omaha with on-demand child care services via its network of vetted local sitters. Low wages and thin profit margins mean few high quality options for families.

"It's not just an Omaha problem — there is a child care crisis happening right now in the United States," Mikuls said.

QLI is partnering with Swishboom to provide free access to the platform for any of its approximately 425 employees for one year.

QLI's Armitage said the leadership team considered offering child care stipends or an afterschool program. They ultimately decided to contract with Swishboom because it addressed the challenge they were trying to solve for their employees: Finding a trusted caregiver even if it's last-minute.

In July, Primrose School opened as an on-site child care provider for Hudl's headquarters in Lincoln — home to around 600 of the company's 3,500 global workforce.

An annual engagement survey revealed a desire for more benefits for existing and soon-to-be parents at Hudl, said Mark Ketcham, vice president of operations at Hudl.

Primrose School at Hudl features 7,000 square feet of indoor learning and purposeful play space, an outdoor area and multiple age-specific classrooms to serve infants through pre-K. Hudl employees receive subsidized rates.

"I appreciate that I can take advantage of this benefit and better balance growing in my profession without sacrificing being a great mom," said Hudl employee and Primrose parent Marilyn John.

Hudl hopes the on-site child care incentivizes more employees to come into the office as the post-COVID work landscape continues to evolve, Ketcham said.

Both QLI and Hudl hope the child care benefits will help attract and retain talent.

Hudl is partnering with First Five Nebraska, a nonprofit focused on early childhood care and learning, to study the impact of offering on-site care, Ketcham said.

"We want to be able to tell our story and show others what this can provide," Ketcham said. "We have already seen tremendous support from those using (the center), including nursing mothers."

Armitage at QLI said the new Swishboom benefit is highlighted in new employee onboarding, and current employees are starting to download the app.

"It's just nice to have the peace of mind that there's a back up plan."

The Flatwater Free Press is Nebraska's first independent, nonprofit newsroom focused on investigations and feature stories that matter. This story was originally published by Silicon Prairie News, FFP's sister news outlet devoted to all things related to Nebraska startups and small businesses.

EPPJ sweep Wausa, CWC at Thursday triangular

WAUSA — The ‘sweep’ was on.

On Thursday night the Wolfpack volleyball team wasted little time in defeating Chambers/Wheeler Central and Wausa.

Coach Jordyn Luettel’s team allowed CWC just 13 points over two sets as they dominated the Renegades for the second time this season.

Senior Ashlynn Charf led a ‘kill party’ with seven kills in 13 swings at the net. The team had 23 kills in 49 swings. Team-mate Chloe Henn had six kills.

Five players recorded set assists led by Baylee Busted with 12. Another impressive statistic in the match was blocks. The team had five in the match, led by Kayton Zwingman with two.

In the other match, Wausa couldn’t keep pace with the Wolfpack as EPPJ prevailed 25-9 and 25-12.

Home court meant little for the Vikings on this night as EPPJ controlled the match from the start.

The Wolfpack had 17 kills in the match. Charf, Henn and Sara Bode combined for 16 of the team’s 17 kills.

At the net, Henn had three solo blocks, Zwingman added two. EPPJ had just eight dig errors and two serve receive errors in the match. Kate Furstenau led in serve receive (seven) and digs (10).

Tales

been good to the Big Red. After the shellacking Michigan gave the Huskers a week before, I wasn’t sure who was gonna show up to face the Illini and Husker nemesis Head Coach Bert Bielema.

The Blackshirts showed up. The offense tried to give the game away late only to see the Blackshirts rise to the occasion.

Hey, the team is 3-3 after six games. The record could be better, but the defense is playing with pride like the Blackshirts used to.

The rest of the schedule isn’t easy and there are no sure wins out there, but I think we can find three more wins and become bowl eligible. Wouldn’t that be great - to see Nebraska play a bowl game again?

Then there’s the bittersweet. Amidst all this athletic success, Wolfpack players lost one of their best fans ever last week. Dennis Suhr passed away last week.

No one was a better Wolfpack fan than he. Seldom was there a Wolfpack game where he wasn’t there. Only when his health wouldn’t allow it would he not be there, along with his cohorts Burton Dozler and Percy Payne.

His support for the Wolfpack was akin to unconditional love. And the players knew it. Team members always wanted to get their photos taken with these super fans. Just last week I was contacted by a parent whose daughter wanted to give him a mini-volleyball prior to the start of the Humphrey St. Francis game. It didn’t happen because he had gone to Arbor Manor. Just days later, he’s gone.

Dozler and Payne died earlier this year, now Suhr is gone. I can only hope they’re together now looking down from above cheering on the Wolfpack. They’re gone, but won’t be forgotten.

Zoning Administrator Megan Wingate announced Monday that the commission will continue deliberations on a proposed conditional use permit for Summit Carbon Solutions/SCS Carbon Transport LLC for the purpose of a carbon dioxide pipeline to run through the county on its way to North Dakota. The hearing, open to the public, will take place on Thursday, October 12, beginning at 3 p.m. in the commissioner's meeting room at the Antelope County Courthouse. By Sandy Schroth court reporter

Shane A. Sleister, 49, of Oakdale faced the Honorable Donna Taylor in the Antelope County courtroom in Neligh on Oct. 4, for arraignment on two counts, Count I, resisting arrest, a Class 1 misdemeanor; and Count II, driving under suspension, a Class 3 misdemeanor.

If convicted, Sleister faces up to a $1,000 fine and/or one year incarceration on Count I and up to $500/90 days on Count II. Sleister requested court-appointed counsel. Taylor appointed Antelope County public defender Pat Carney and set further arraignment Nov. 1. Bond is continued, in the amount of $4,000, 10% cash.

Sleister was arrested Sept. 20, in Oakdale, after he fled on foot from Antelope County deputies.

Kristopher T. Dorie, 39, of Albion appeared for arraignment on a count of third-degree assault, alleged Aug. 22. If convicted of the Class 1 misdemeanor, Dorie faces up to a $1,000 fine and/or one year incarceration. Dorie requested court-appointed counsel. Taylor appointed Carney and set further arraignment Nov. 1.

Kegan J. McAllister, 19, of Tilden appeared for arraignment on a charge of third-degree domestic assault, a Class 1 misdemeanor alleged July 6. If convicted, he faces up to a $1,000 fine and/or one year incarceration McAllister requested continuance to consult with an attorney. Further arraignment is set Nov. 1. On a prosecution motion, Taylor ordered any bond in the case include a condition for no direct or indirect contact with the alleged victim.

Misdemeanor count of third-degree assault (by mutual consent) alleged June 29. Murberger requested court-appointed counsel on the littering charge and Taylor appointed Martin Klein of Neligh, who represents her in the other case.

Antelope County Attorney Joe Smith indicated the charge was filed incorrectly. "It is actually theft of services," he said.

Klein indicated agreement had been reached in the assault case, "until about two minutes ago." He requested continuance, based on the new charge.

Taylor continued both cases to Nov. 1, as well as the case of co-defendant Ronald E. Murberger, 52, of Neligh, who is also charged with third-degree assault by mutual consent. Murberger is represented by Carney.

driving, an infraction, all committed Dec. 21, 2022, when he was involved in a two-vehicle collision west of Neligh. Carney requested continuance to finish work on restitution amount. Taylor continued sentencing to Nov. 15.
